We are greatly indebted to all those who contributed to this volume of To Improve Health and Health Care: The Robert Wood Johnson Foundation Anthology. In particular, we want to acknowledge the contributions of Elizabeth Dawson, who has done exemplary work as editorial assistant, researcher, proofreader, coordinator, and administrator; Patrick Crow, who has once again proven himself to be without peer as an editor; and Molly McKaughan, who did her usual fine job in reviewing every chapter for accuracy and consistency with Foundation strategy and execution. All three have been associated with the Anthology since its inception.

The Anthology would not be possible without the stellar efforts of our panel of outside reviewers—Bill Morrill, Patti Patrizi, and Jon Showstack; our fact checker Carolyn Shea; and our editorial consultant Lauren MacIntyre. We thank, as well, Diane Kaplan, Joel Neimeyer, and Steven Schroeder for their helpful comments on various chapters.

Within the Robert Wood Johnson Foundation, we offer our gratitude to David Morse for his guidance throughout the process; Fred Mann for his thoughtfulness and good judgment; Risa Lavizzo-Mourey for her support and counsel; Rose Littman, Chris Clayton, Deb Malloy, and Tina Hines for their administrative support; Lydia Ryba and Patti Higgins for checking internal program information; Mimi Turi, Mary Castria, Carol Owle, Carolyn Scholer, and Chris Sowa for their management of contractual and financial matters; Ann Christiano, David Krol, and Jane Lowe for reviewing draft chapters; Hope Woodhead and Sherry DeMarchi for overseeing production and distribution; Hinda Greenberg, Mary Beth Kren, and Barbara Sergeant for providing information on a timely basis; and Penny Bolla and the Web team for quickly getting the book on the Foundation's Web site in an attractive and visible format. We wish to single out the especially important contribution Sarah Pickell made to this volume through her conscientious research and fact finding.
